PRINCESS

Princess Anne High Schooı ıs a model of excellence in many ways. Students are given access to a school library, gymnasuim, auditorium, and stadium. The classrooms, furnished with up-to-date apparatus and equipment, enable the faculty to teach with the best of ficilities. More important, however, Princess Anne High School serves as a model of excellence for the future. The school's varied and inclusive academic curriculum, with courses ranging from journalism and dramatics to chemistry and shorthand, provides an excellent opportunity for a well-rounded high school education. Of more consequence, such a curriculum allows young people to discover ond develop unknown interests and hidden talents which hold a promise of an excellent future. In cooperation with its superior guidance department, Princess Anne aids the student in his decision for his future. Perhaps in this ascept, Princess Anne High School truly excels.

On September 3, 1964, the students of Princess Anne, representative of diverse personalities and talents, were assembed. Throughout the year they have effected one of the finest student bodies in the state. They are subdivided into four separate classes: Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors. The newly formed Freshman class consists of approximately 200 members from the sections of Aragona and Pembroke. The construction of several new high schools such as Cox and Kellam and the graduation of the extremely large class of 1964 has made it possible for Princess Anne to once again include Freshmen in its curriculum. Each class maintains its own character and contributes its own outstanding members. These individuals may have been distinguished leaders in their classes and organizations or excellent atheletes in some selected sport or, perhaps, even meritorious scholars in the Scholastic Teams or Honor Societies. Each student, however, possesses his outstanding skill; and he and his fellow classmates donate their special talents in order that Princess Anne might excel in every field.

The teachers of Princess Anne must be superior. The high standards and the desired goals of this school require it. The school's curriculum can only be as effective as its faculty; the student's mind can be developed only so far as his instructor allows or persuades; consequently, each depaartment has maintained teachers of the highest merit. The superiority of the Princess Anne faculty has been illustrated in the records of the teachers themselves; but, even more, the outstanding records of their students, not only in their high school experience but also during their college carer, offer proof of the quality of their Princess Anne educators.

In regards to the activities of Princess Anne High School, excellence indicates greater variety, opportunities, and fulfilment. As for variety, one may be a Future Teacher of a Future Business Leader: if he is musically inclined, he can enlist in the Princess Anne Band or the Madrigal Singers; if sports is his "cup-of-tea," there is no end of choices from football to golf; he can practice his journalism through the Peerage or the Page. The activities in Princess Anne also offer many opportunities through their variety. Key Club, Jr. Civtan, the Tri-Hi-Y's, and the Hi-Y's offer students opportunities to fulfil civic duties and responsibilities. The S.C.A. and the Honor Council allow Princess Anne students to take part in the operation and government of their school. The Foreign Exchange Student Program enables the pupils of Princess Anne to meet and get to know students from other countries. Through the Scholastic Team program, The National Honor Societies, and other clubs one can possibly win a scholarship for his future education. However, all these praiseworthy aspects lead to the one main objective—fulfilment—emotionally, intellectually, and spiritually.

STUDENT ASSEMBLIES OPEN THE YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

At the football rally before the game with Norview, students are introduced to the 1965 squad.

Mr. Sachon speaks to the students about the upcoming football season.

Foreign exchange student Palma Porro speaks to the students of her new school as cheerleader Jan Richter and SCA president Randy Henderson look on.

Each fall at the opening of football season an assembly is held for the entire student body. Because of the large number of students at Princess Anne, the students assemble in the stadium to hear messages from both fellow students and faculty members.

This year's assembly, unlike those of previous years, was held after PA had defeated Great Bridge in its opening game. The students were understandably in good spirits, and Mr. Sachon's words were inspirational as the entire school looked forward to a winning season.

PA's exchange student Palma Porro, who had been in her new home for only a few days, spoke to the assembly. She was welcomed with a roaring cheer by the students of Princess Anne.

Other assemblies included an orientation program for students in their first year at Princess Anne. In addition, individual classes held assemblies to hear speeches by candidates for class offices.

PALMA PORRO IS PA'S FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT

Palma Porro, Princess Anne's foreign exchange student, is a native of Monza, an Italian city near Milano. She came to Virginia Beach as a part of the American Field Service Exchange Program. This program provides foreign students the opportunity to spend a year in the United States, going to school and living with an American family. This interchange of students results in an unmeasurable amount of good will and understanding between the young people of the world. The family Palma lives with in the U. S. was chosen by the American Field Service through careful interviewing.

Palma is a member of the senior class at Princess Anne and a member of various clubs, including Theta Tri-Hi-Y, the GAA, and the Junior Civitan Club. She is unsure of her future plans, but will return to school next year in Italy. Palma's quick smile and friendly manner have won her many lasting friends in the United States.

Palma arrives at school ready for a day of hard work.

Palma and her American "sister" Kathy Craig speak with Mr. Cox, who sponsors the foreign exchange student program.

Palma is greeted with signs and smiles by Karen Parker and Peggy Mannen.

PA's first view of Palma was as she got off the bus downtown.

Homecoming night, one of the most important social and athletic events of the school year, culminates weeks of worry and work. The S.C.A., in conjunction with the varsity football team, nominates five senior girls for Homecoming Queen. The student body then votes for the girl they feel most deserves the honor of being the 1964 Homecoming Queen.

Jan Richter was chosen as queen because of her service to the school as well as her beauty and personality. Jan has served as secretary of her sophomore class and as secretary of the S. C.A. She has led the school in spirit as a cheerleader and has contributed much to the service organizations to which she belongs. Because of such outstanding service to the school, Jan's fellow students honored her by electing her Homecoming Queen.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS ATTEND BOYS' AND GIRLS' STATE

Each year the Junior Class selects its representative to Girls' and Boys' State. Teachers select and nominate the primary candidates based on their scholastic, civic, and leadership qualities. The Class then selects a number of these candidates to represent Princess Anne.

Boys' and Girls' State are both sponsored by the American Legion and its Women's Auxiliary. Boys' State is located at William and Mary and the Girls' State at Radford College. For one week each summer these colleges become separate states with student governments. Representatives learn the functions of Virginia government on both the local and state levels. The two-party system is also analyzed as students occupy offices in either the legislative, executive, or judicial departments of the state.

Peggy Mannen, Miss Princess Anne of 1965, in her costume as Eliza Doolittle from "My Fair Lady."

The annual Miss Princess Anne Pageant, sponsored by the Keyettes, was won this year by Miss Peggy Mannen, a 5' 9" brunette beauty. She is a senior who is a member of the A Capella choir, the Keyettes, and the Girls' Athletic Association. She has served the school in various capacities, such as in the holding of a class office, the participation in the SCA, and as a varsity cheerleader.

The girls in the pageant were first elected in the various homerooms. A panel of teachers then eliminated all but seventeen girls—five seniors, five juniors, five sophomores, and two freshmen. After weeks of rehearsal, the big night arrived and the girls modeled sports clothes and evening gowns. The judges then eliminated all but five, and these five made a talent presentation. Then the five were asked two questions which were designed to test the finalists' poise and ease. The judges then deliberated and finally the winner was announced. Miss Congenialty, who this year is Lynn Prangley, was chosen by the girls in the contest on the night of the pageant.

COURT OF MISS PRINCESS ANNE

Lynn Prangley, first runner up and Miss Congenialty, did a charleston number for her talent.

Dolly Mayo, third runner-up, does a comedy strip-tease called "The Old Wash Woman".

Fourth runner-up Jeanette McKee does a pantomime about being a woman.

Carolyn Annas, who placed as second runner-up, gave a beautiful vocal rendition of "More."

KAREN PARKER ELECTED PEERAGE QUEEN

Each year the Seniors select one girl from those members of the Class whom they consider as having contributed the most to Princess Anne and to the Senior Class to receive the title of Peerage Queen. Each Senior homeroom nominates two girls, one from the homeroom and one from the entire Senior Class, to compete for the title. Homeroom representatives send these results to the Annual Room where the Staff tabulates the votes to discover the top candidates. These names are then placed on ballots and they are distributed among the homerooms where the final election takes place. However, the name of the Peerage Queen is not announced until the Annual Dance. At that time the Peerage Queen is crowned and presented with the first annual.

The Senior Class of '65 has selected Miss Karen Parker as the Queen of the Peerage. Miss Parker has contributed her time and many talents to the school itself and the activities which it sponsors. She has promoted school spirit while serving as a varsity cheerleader. She has ruled as a judge of the Honor Court. She has actively participated in the Student Council for the past three years as a homeroom representative. Throughout her Senior year, she has remained a member in good standing in the National Honor Society. She served as Vice-President for both Theta Tri-Hi-Y and the Keyette Club. Karen has also contributed her time to her Class and has brought it many honors and much recognition. This year she reigned as a member of the Homecoming Court. In her Junior year she was chosen by her fellow class members to serve as a representative to Girls' State. In her Sophomore year she served her class as President.

In view of her many accomplishments, both the Senior Class and the entire school, proudly acknowledge Karen Parker as their Peerage Queen.

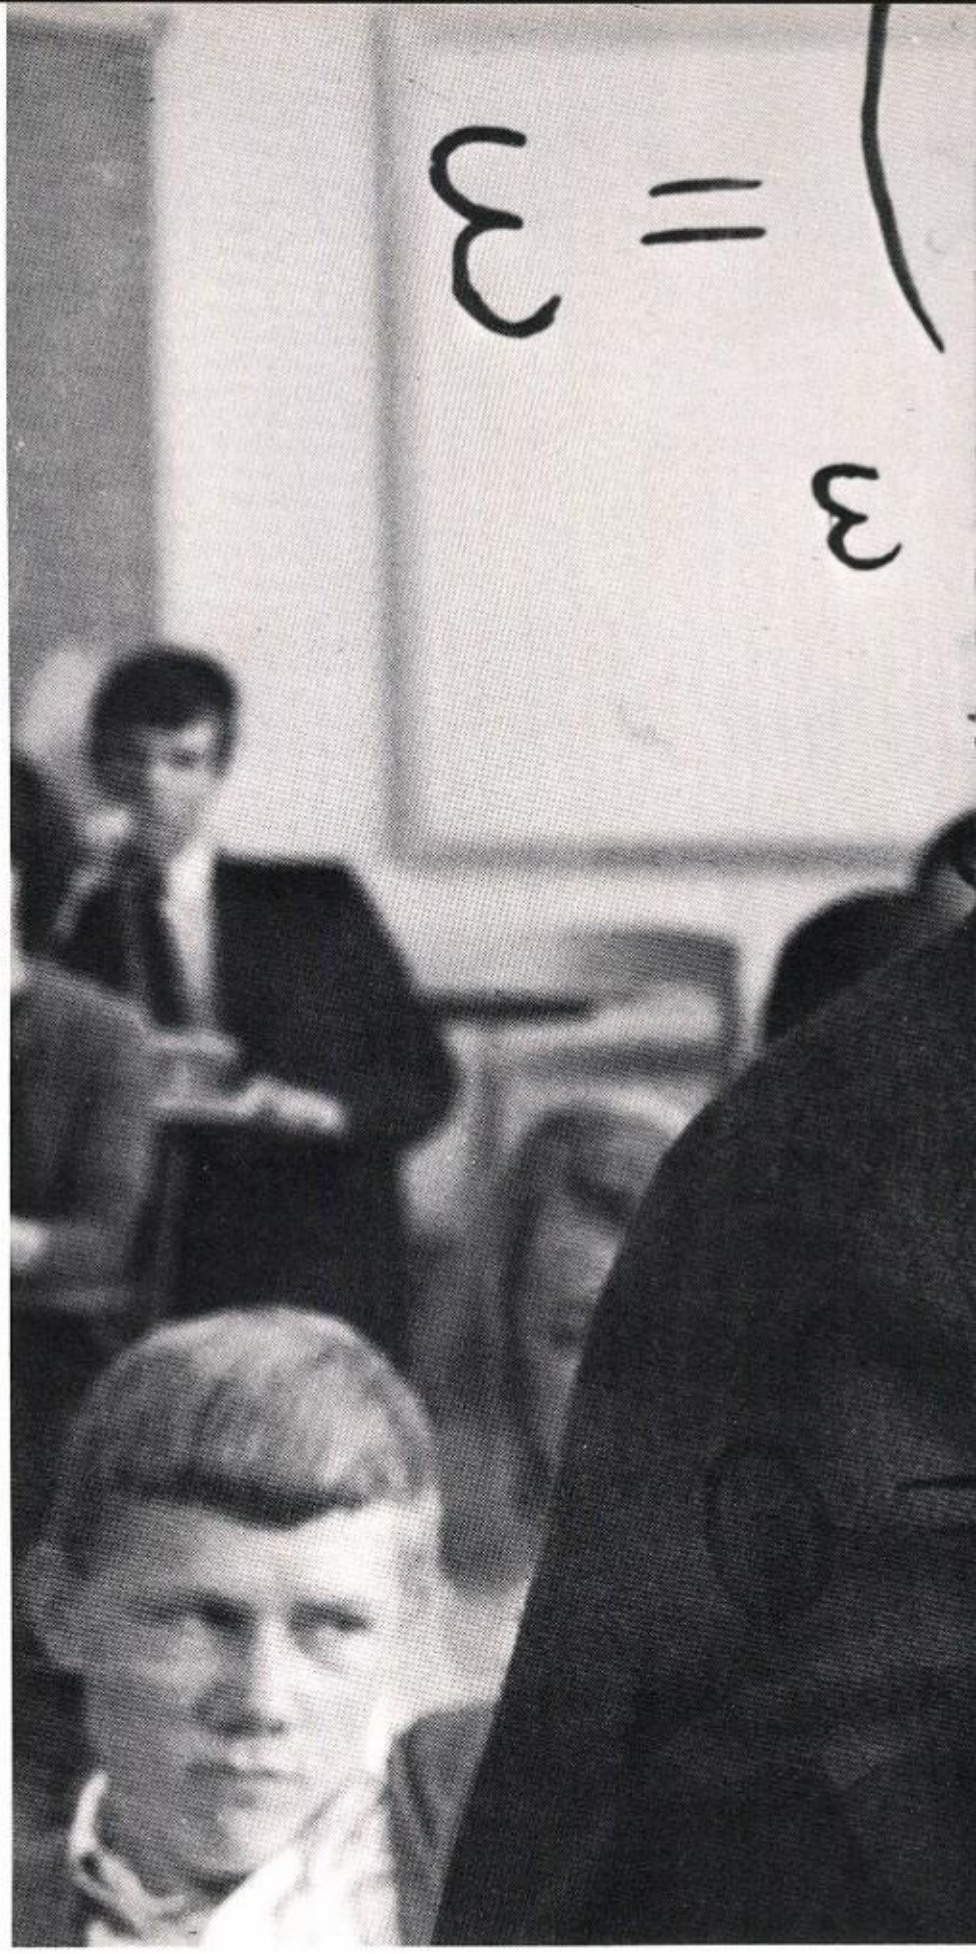
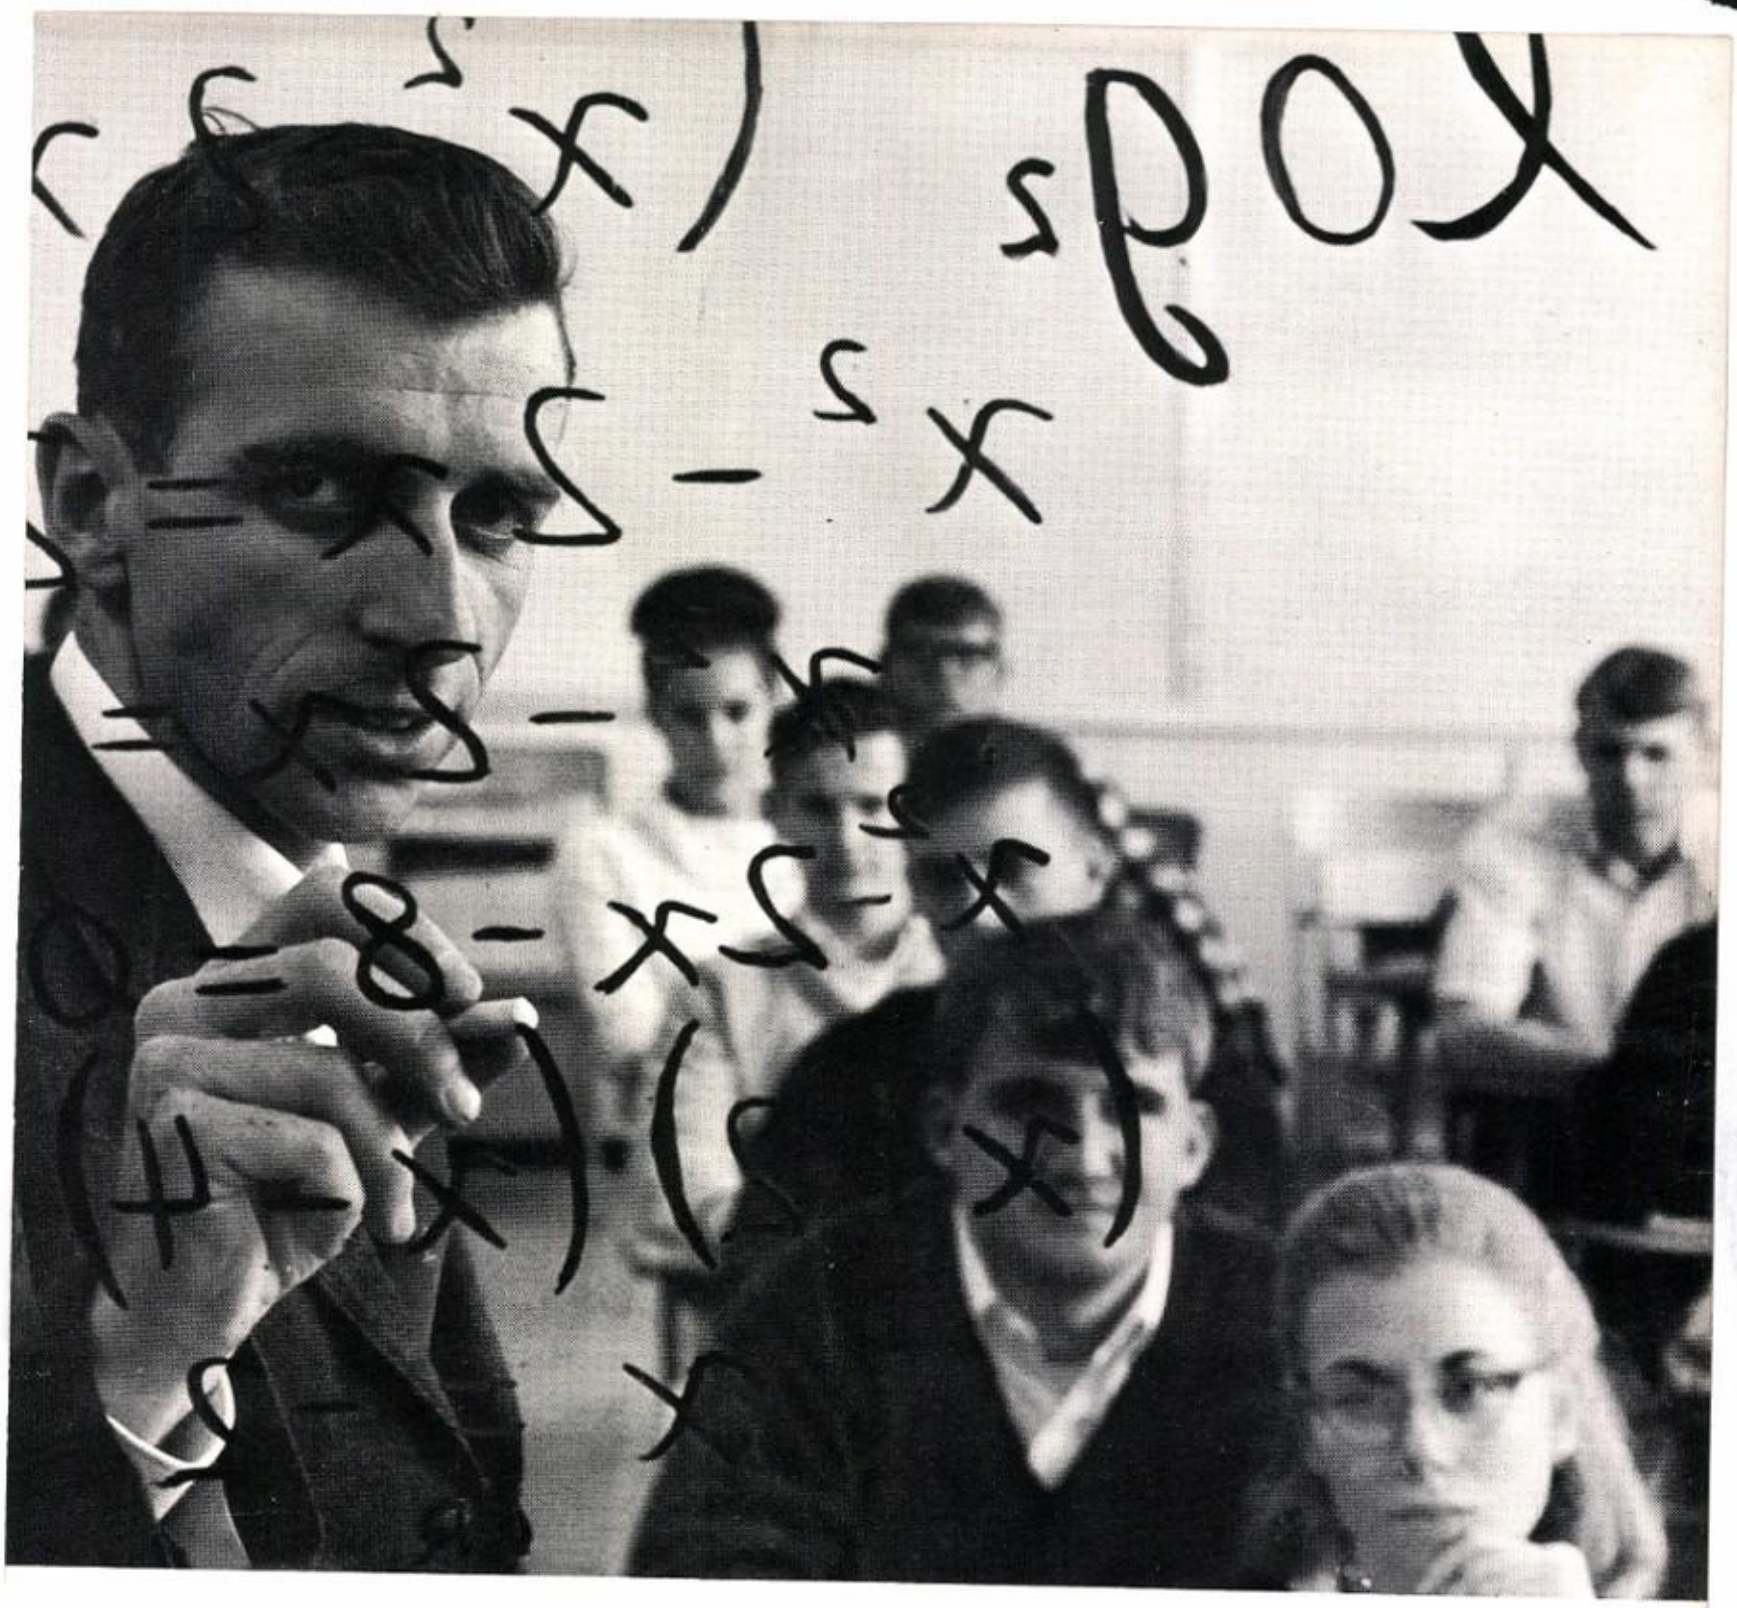
through the invaluable assistance of an administration incorporating superior executive, academic, and guidance departments. In the past, the administration's efforts have brought Princess Anne accrediation by the State Department of Education and the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Under the supervision of the principal and the faculty, through their various departmental divisions, have tried to expand the scope of the curriculum to include opportunities for the development of every facet of the students' interests and capabilities. This curriculum provides for the following departments: English, Foreign Language,Social Studies, Math, Science, Physical Education, Home Economics, Fine Arts, Business, and Trades. Through the varied courses under these departments, students can prepare for a college education, business school, and apprenticeship, or any future career requiring a well-developed educational background. However, it has not been simply the curriculum which has made this an efficient system. Only the hard work of well-qualified teachers has made this curriculum effective. Equally important to its success, the guidance counselors have performed inestimable assistance by aiding students in the selection of those courses most suited to their individual abilities and ambitions. As to the extent of the excellence of this administration, one need only refer to the abundant honors acquired by the students of Princess Anne High School.





CURRICULUM

Superintendent of Schools

From its establishment in 1953, Princess Anne High School has maintained an outstanding administration. The principal, Mr. J. Warren Littleton has served Princess Anne as its chief administrator for many years. He has seen Princess Anne emerge from a small five grade junior and senior high school into a full-fledged high school, an outstanding Group A participant. This year the students of Princess Anne demonstrated their appreciation for his fine services by presenting him with an oil portrait. This portrait of the principal is displayed in the foyer of the auditorium.

Mr. Edwin Charles has also rendered his invaluable services to Princess Anne for many years. Both faculty and students have admired and respected his role as an executive administrator.

The Princess Anne administrators are as versatile as they are efficient. One good example is the assistant principal, Pete Sachon. During the fall season he is better known by his alias, Coach Sachon, as he serves as Princess Anne's head football coach. In the spring he assumes another title, that of Golf Coach. Mr. Sachon has helped Princess Anne acquire many athletic awards and honors as well as contribute many services as an assistant principal.

COUNSELORS HELP SOLVE STUDENT PROBLEMS

This year Princess Anne's Guidance Department saw a new member with the addition of the Freshman Class. She is Miss Kathleen Davis who now joins Mrs. Freeman, Mrs. Hudgins, Miss Bracey, and Mr. Atkinson. These counselors work with students on a grade level basis in order to distribute their time more efficiently. Two counselors are assigned to the Senior Class as this grade level particularly depends on their counselors for college and vocational guidance. These full time counselors are available at all times for conferences with students and parents.

The guidance department is designed to help students with their academic, personal, and social problems which they encounter during their high school career. The department supervises testing programs such as the National Merit Scholarship Exams; it also organizes College and Career Day Programs.

The guidance counselors are aided by the faculty advisors. Each homeroom teacher is available to help students in his room. In addition, each teacher has at least one full period a day for subject-matter counseling. Such a complete guidance system enables students to pass through high school with a minimum of difficulties.

Senior counselors Mrs. Clelia Freeman and Mrs. Frances Hudgins examine a new college catalog.

The Princess Anne English Department continues to distinguish itself through the efforts of capable faculty members and extended curriculum. The chairman of the department is Mrs. Mary Barnes, who has maintained this position for several years.

One of the outstanding features of the required English courses is the division of remedial, average, and superior levels especially suited to the student's background. For those students who have had insufficent instruction, the remedial classes strive to correct inadequate backgrounds. The average classes are suited to those students who have the normal amount of background. The superior classes are geared to those students who have had an outstanding English foundation.

Besides the compulsory English curriculum, the department offers several elective courses. In Advanced Composition, the student receives a more concetrated instruction in writing. A course in world literature allows students to explore literature beyond that of the British and Americans. The department also includes the more specialized courses in journalism in which students interested in such a career can learn the fundamentals and experiment with their talents. No matter what his interest, there is a course for every student.

Miss Predmore, a new sophomore English teacher, reviews rules of parts of speech with her students.

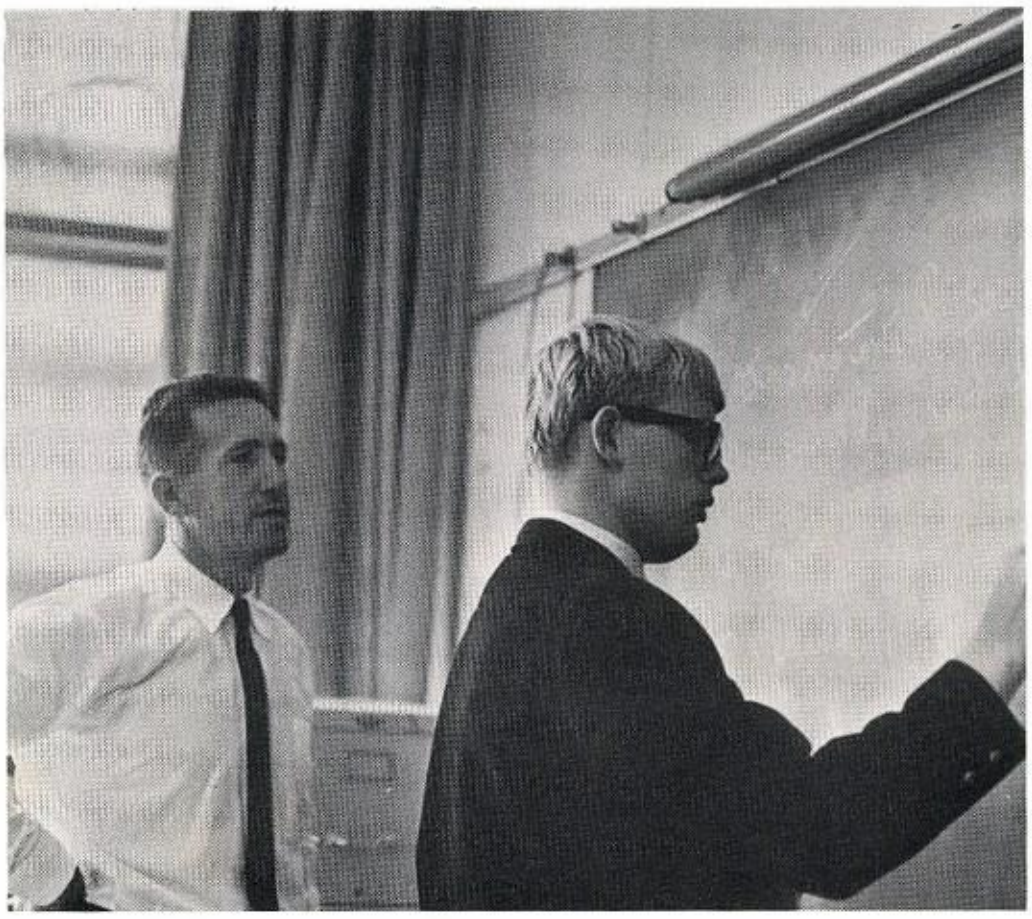
LAB AIDS STUDY OF FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Miss Loth dictates a short essay to students in French.

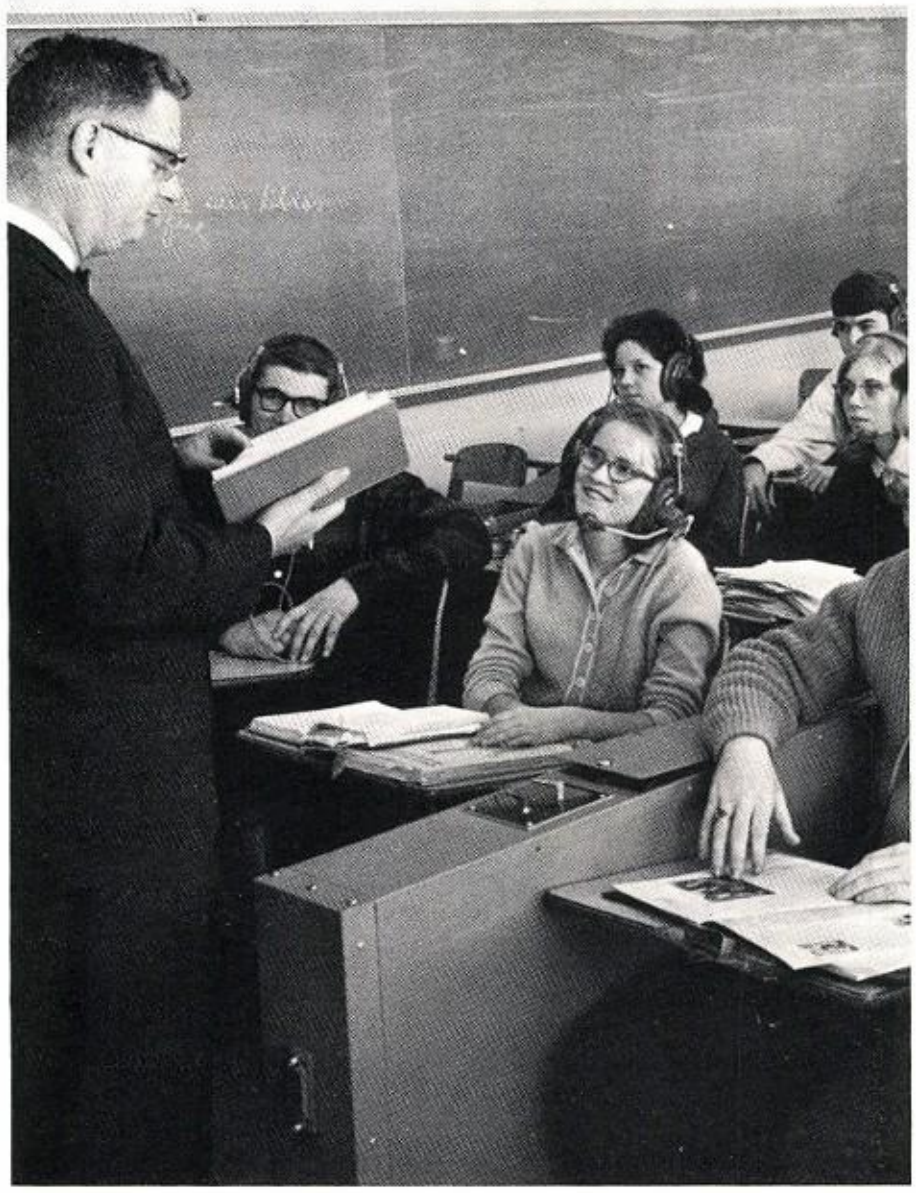
The Language Department offers an extensive program in foreign languages. Under the direction of the chairman, Miss Jewel Whitlock, the curriculum has constantly expanded until it now includes French, Spanish, Latin, and the latest addition, German. The language programs in Spanish and Latin include four year courses. The French curriculum covers five years. The courses in German were only introduced last year, and at present Princess Anne offers only the first two years. However, the department plans to extend the program in the future. In general the first two years of each language are concentrated in the essential rules of grammar. Although the mechanics are continually stressed, the later courses concentrate on the literature and history of the respective countries.

The Language Department has access to many modern facilities. This summer several language rooms were equipped with the furnishings of a language lab. Each student has his own individual microphone and tape recorder. Using this equipment the student can record and listen to his own voice. Also, the teacher can hear each individual pupil without the interference of a class recitation. These new labs, together with modern teaching methods, enable Princess Anne students to grasp a working vocabulary, both oral and written, in their chosen language.

Sr. Rodriquez helps a student with a translation.



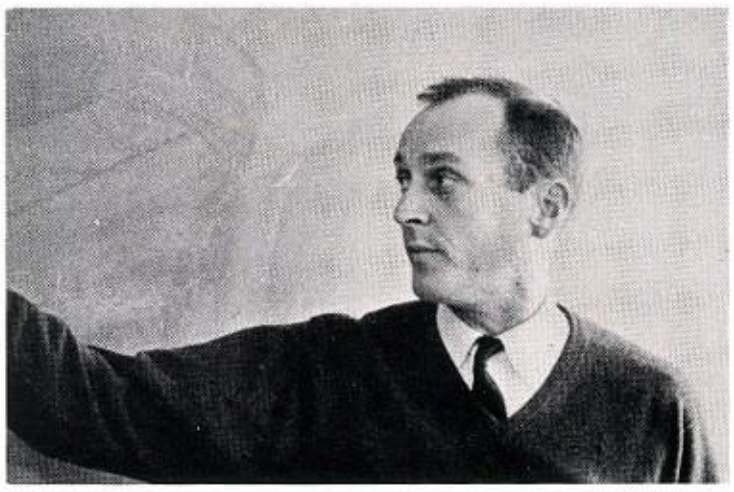
The language lab offers students opportunities to hear and record their own voices.



STUDENTS STUDY SOCIETY AND HISTORY

Teachers such as Mr. Breedlove . . .

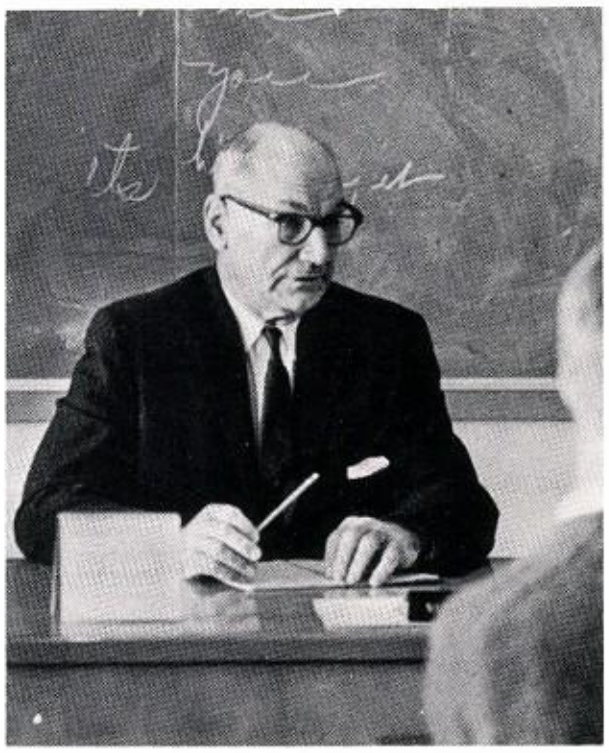
Mr. Purcell . . .



Mr. Shaw . . .

and Mr. Cox encourage students to do their best.

Mr. Condit pauses and answers questions.



Government classes, as this one of Mr. Garrou's, are required for graduation.

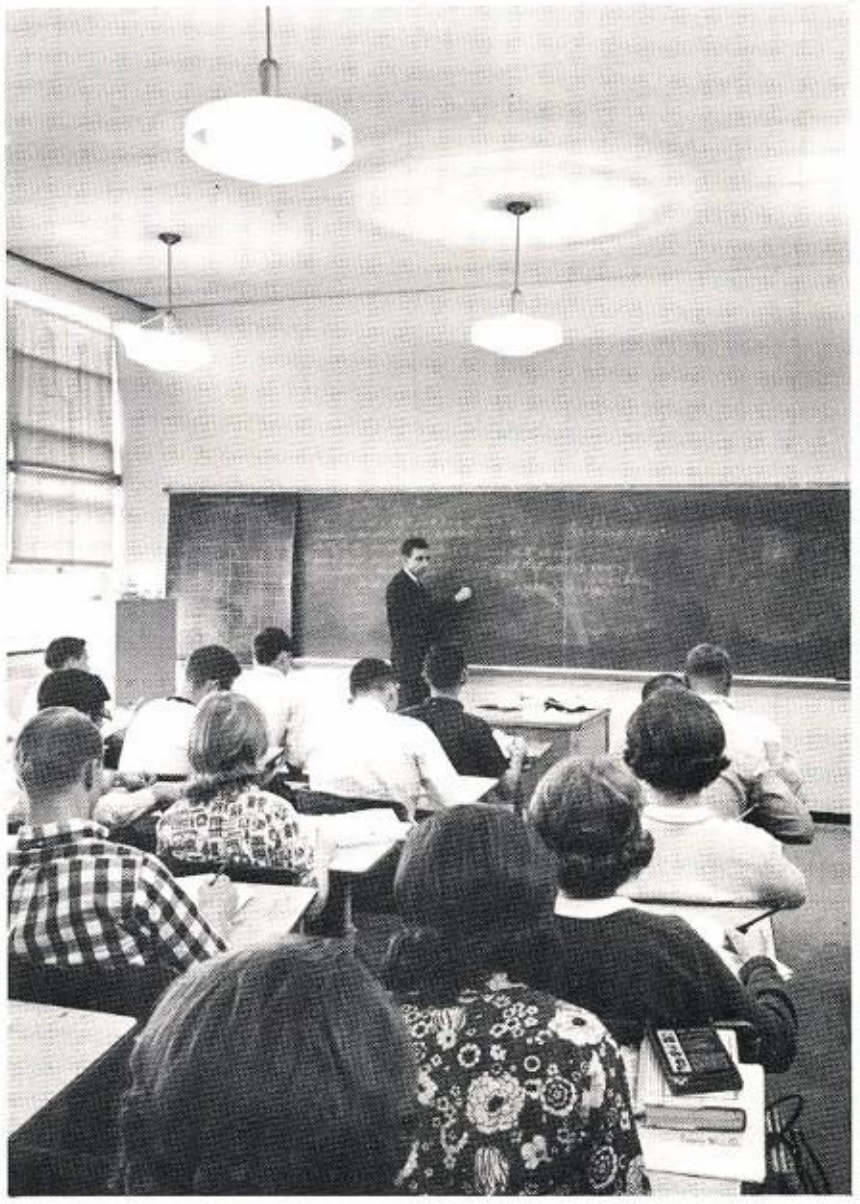
The curriculum of the Social Studies Department, under the direction of Mr. E. E. Cox, incorporates several courses with varied subject matter. The most prominent courses are those required ones in United States history and government. The program in U. S. history is designed to present the student with a comprehensive study of the heritage of America on an inquiring level. The pupil does not simply learn the dates of famous events, but instead, he tries to understand why these events occurred. The goal of the government course is to prepare the student for citizenship. The students study the Constitution in detail to understand its application in the working government.

The social studies curriculum is not restricted to the U. S. The department offers a course in world history in which a study is made of man from the Stone Age to the Nuclear Age. The program in world geography points out the different climates and their effects on man and his civilization. Through the course in international relations the student gains a comprehension of world affairs. The department offers a course in economy in which the pupil develops a general understanding of the operation of an economic system. A semester course in sociology presents a study of human society with emphasis on custom, groups, social processes, etc. associated with a society.

STUDENTS TAUGHT NEW THEORIES OF MATHEMATICS

The Mathematics Department, under the direction of Miss Margaret Bailey, is particularly designed to prepare the prospective college student for the more difficult math. Taken by the majority of the students, the first two courses in Algebra are the most prevalent in the preparatory program. In these courses, the student learns the essential fundamentals of algebra, particularly in regard to theory. After completion of these subjects the department advises the students to sample the more complicated courses in unified geometry, trigonometry, and Algebra III. Unified geometry introduces the pupil to the primary concepts of both plane and solid geometry as he attempts to prove and utilize the simpler theorems. A course solely in solid geometry is also offered. The student of trigonometry learns the simple trig ratios and applies them in solving practical problems. Algebra III allows interested students to advance still further into higher math.

The department does not exclude those students who are not interested in theoretical math. It offers a special course in general mathematics for those who need an understanding of practical math and its usage through everyday application. The course is also recommended as an excellent background for any type of mathematical pursuit.



Mr. Robbins introduces a law to one of his Algebra III classes.

SUPERIOR EQUIPMENT AIDS SCIENCE INSTRUCTORS

The Science Department of Princess Anne is under the direction of Mrs. Mabel Taylor. The curriculum includes four courses, General Science, Biology, Chemistry, and Physics. The biology course explores the essentials of botany and zoology with particular emphasis on the human anatomy. The chemistry program is a presentation of the composition of the common metallic and non-metallic elements through a study of their properties as evidenced in the Periodic Table with the emphasis placed on the application of chemical laws and principles. The physic's curriculum attempts to explain the fundamental principles of matter and energy in connection with its effect in mechanics, heat, light, sound, and electricity. Each lab science is taught in a fully-equipped laboratory classroom in which the students and faculty have access to a variety of apparatus. Through these facilities students are able to view and perform experiments to verify those principals they have learnd.

MENTAL HEALTH DEPENDS ON PHYSICAL WELL-BEING

Great plans are discussed in the huddle.

The Physical Education Department incorporates two separate divisions; they are Girls' Physical Education headed by Mrs. Doris French and Boys' Physical Education under the direction of Mr. John Grady.

The departments have access to many sport facilities which have resulted in an interesting and inclusive program. The large main gym is divided into the two smaller girls' and boys' gyms. In each gym there is a basketball court and other facilities for indoor sports. Besides the main gym there is the small or corrective gym where pupils may work out on the mat, the recently purchased trampolines, and other gymnastic equipment. Outside the gyms are many facilities for outdoor athletics. These facilities include a track, baseball fields, hockey fields, and tennis courts.

The physical education curriculum does not simply include an athletic program. Except for those elective courses in gym, the curriculum includes instructions in good hygiene, both physical and mental.

The physical education department also sponsors many intramural sports such as girls basketball, volleyball, and hockey teams. There are also many intramural sports events for boys not on specific school teams.

STUDENTS PREPARE FOR BUSINESS CAREERS

One of Mrs. Verna Frey's shorthand classes in progress.

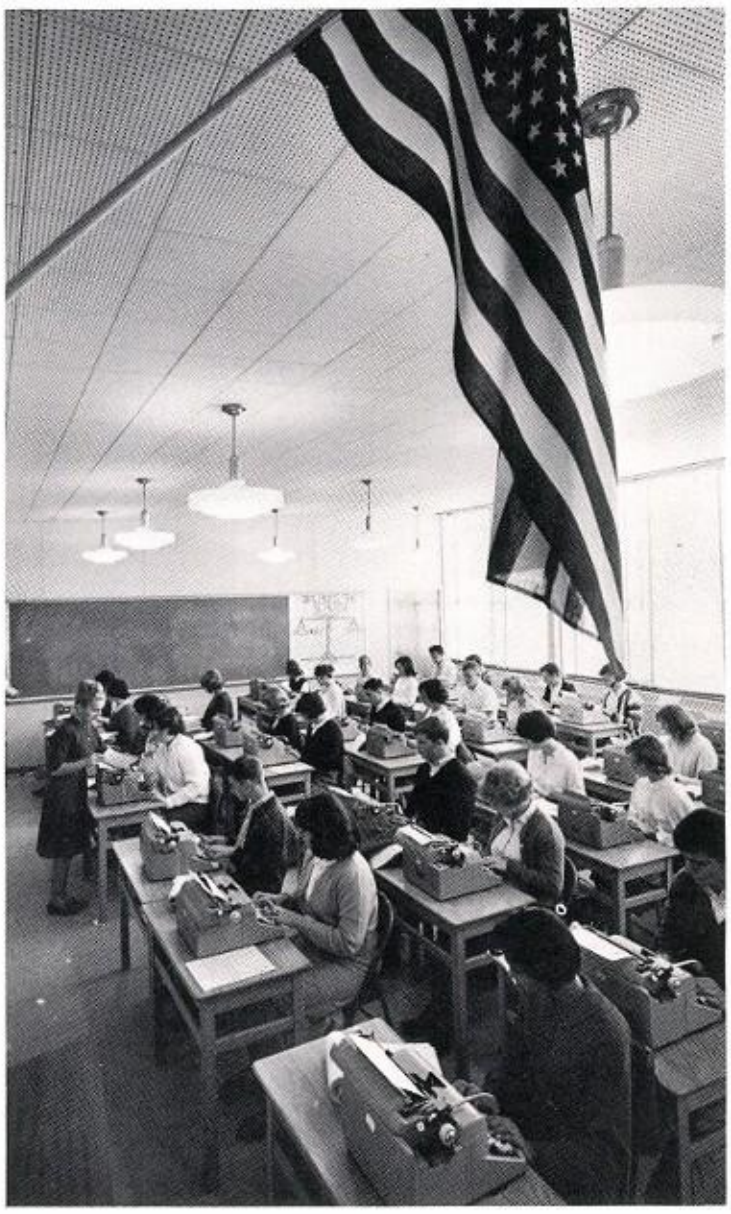
The business curriculum of Princess Anne is recognized for its extensive courses in all fields. There are two courses in Gregg shorthand for the future secretary or businessman. Typing I and II not only furnish students with the skills of touch typing but also familiarize them with the procedures in typing business letters and other office correspondence. For the future accountant Bookkeeping I and II along with a course in general business mathematics acquaint him with the usual procedures of bookkeeping. All future business employees are encouraged to take the courses in general business and business law.

The business curriculum also includes the college bound student. The department offers a semester course in personal typing which concentrates on the skill itself and its application at home and school. The half-credit course in notehand introduces some of the short cuts of shorthand in taking accurate notes.

In conjunction with the business program, the Home Economics Department is directed by its chairman, Mrs. Enid Beazley. The courses prepare the students for the responsibilities and duties of an efficient household. The girls learn such skills as sewing, cooking, and cleaning. They also study methods of budgeting both time and money.

Students use accurate, up-to-date equipment in typing class.

Students learn to type in large, well-equipped classrooms.



TRADES DEVELOP MECHANICAL ABILITY

The Industrial Arts Department of Princess Anne provides students with many opportunities to investigate apprenticeships in technical skills. The department is headed by Mr. Harvard Deen. These courses include those graphic arts and crafts.

The Main shop courses are those dealing in wood and metal. For some boys these courses are the basis of an apprenticeship. However, many boys use the knowledge gained by the courses for practical application in personal use. Practical application is the main objective of the course in electricity which seeks to provide the student with a general knowledge of the principles of everyday appliances.

The more popular courses in the department's curriculum are those in mechanical drawing or drafting. In these classes the students study the application of dimensions and specifications through a development of freehand sketching and graphical solutions.

GIRLS LEARN HOME SKILLS AND MANAGEMENT

Students help one another fit self-made garments.

The Home Economics Department is under the direction of its chairman, Mrs. Enid Beazley. The department offers five courses, each including a year's study for a full credit. The curriculum includes a four-year program and a special one year summary for those Seniors who desire one short comprehensive course.

In their first year of home economics the students learn basic skills. These skills include planning, preparing, and serving family meals and caring for small children. They learn how to make simple cotton garments. The curriculum also includes home projects, field trips, fashion shows, teas, and other guided experiences in home economics. In the second year students begin to develop their skills. They begin to acquire their attitudes and abilities in nutrition and meal preparation. They learn to be more particular in their fabric selection and clothing construction. They learn new skills in home improvement and home nursing. They study methods to improve family relations. The third year course in home economics is aimed toward the future. The course consists of planning for marriage and achieving successful living in families. Students study the factors involved in selecting and planning homes and family finance. In the final year students become more proficient in homemaking activities through specialized teaching in nutrition, tailoring, entertaining and managing family business.

The girls learn ways of good housekeeping in the fully equipped kitchens.

STUDENTS DEVELOP SKILLS IN FINE ARTS

Princess Anne offers its students opportunities to sample the finer arts. In her art courses Miss Tucker guides young artists as they attempt to express themselves. Perhaps the best-known courses in this department are those for band and chorus. The band and the chorus, both the Madrigal Singers and the A Capella choir, have acquired many honors for Princess Anne. The band has participated in several parades including the Oyster Bowl Parade and the Safety Parade in Washington. The band has also participated in the annual Azalea Festival ad the Musical Festival. The band also participates in the baccalaureate and graduation ceremonies. The chorus has also contributed to Princess Anne's esteem. Two members, Bill Casper and Martha Davis were selected for the All Virginia State Chorus in April. Paul Long and Bill Casper were selected as members of the U.S.A. of American High School Chorus for the 1965 Concert tour. The Madrigal Singers will represent Virginia at the MENC convention in Louisville, Kentucky.

DAILEY MEMBER OF ALL-TIDEWATER SCHOLASTIC TEAM

Each semester the faculty selects eight outstanding students, two from each grade, to serve on the Princess Anne Scholastic Achievement Team. The students courses, grades, and character determine whether he is eligible to enter the Scholastic Team. These few students are designated as the top students of Princess Anne and are given area wide recognition. One Senior is entitled to compete for a two thousand dollar scholarship offered by the newspaper, the Ledger Star, which sponsors this program for scholars. At the end of the school year eight members are chosen from the two semester teams to serve on the Scholastic Achievement Team for that school year. Richard Dailey is Princess Anne's representative on the All-Tidewater Scholastic Team, which is comprised of the most outstanding students in the various Tidewater public high schools.

The Scholastic Team for this year includes: Senior, Richard Dailey and Jean Kelly; Juniors, Bob Hutton and Nancy Shea; Sophomores, Brenda Spruill and Katie Bradshaw; and Freshmen, Lem Marshall and Mike Parker. All the members of the Scholastic Achievement Team have already formulated their future plans. Richard Dailey, who has maintained an A average throughout his high school career and who is valedictorian of his class, plans to major in the basic sciences and then specialize in the field of biochemistry. His fellow Senior, Jean Kelly, who is the salutatorian of her class, intends to enlist in the Foreign Service Program after she has graduated. Junior Bob Hutton is considering majoring in English while he is in college. Nancy Shea looks toward science and math as her majors while she attends college. Katie Bradshaw has decided to enter the teaching profession after completing college. Brenda Spruill hopes to study medicine and enter the medical profession as a doctor. Freshman Lem Marshall, who is president of his class, intends to become a chemical engineer. Mike Parker is interested in a career in music, particularly concerning the piano. With such high goals and ambitions, these Princess Anne students certainly deserved their position as a member of the Scholastic Achievement Team for the year 1964-1965.

DAILEY AND KELLEY TAKE TOP HONORS IN SENIOR CLASS

The valedictorian and the salutatorian of the class of 1965, Richard Dailey and Jean Kelley, are two students of whom the class may be very proud. Both have distinguished themselves throughout their high school careers in many ways. Richard and Jean have both been members of the school scholastic team since their first year at Princess Anne. Both have received Letters of Commendation from the National Merit Foundation.

Richard Dailey, the valedictorian, is vice-president of the Science Club and a script writer for the talking annual, "That Was The Year That Was." His sincere interest and outstanding merit in science enabled him to represent Virginia Beach at the 1964 Youth Conference on the Atom at the University of Chicago. Richard intends to major in the basic sciences in college and will specialize in biochemistry. He will attend the university of Virginia.

Jean Kelley, the salutatorian, has also been awarded many honors while at Princess Anne. She attended Girls' State and has held offices in Trinity Tri-Hi-Y. She has been a member of both the Spanish and French National Honor Societies. She plans to attend Mary Washington College and hopes to pursue a career in the Foreign Service after graduation from college.

Richard and Jean up to their usual tricks.

PA GRADUATES FIFTY-ONE WITH HONORS

On June 11, 1965, fifty-one of the five hundred seventy-five members of the senior class will graduate with honors from Princess Anne. These students have maintained at least a 6.00 average throughout their high school years. Their academic supremacy will be acknowledged in the graduation exercises in which they will be the first to receive their diplomas.

The maintenance of a B average in itself is an accomplishment. The majority of these students are enrolled in academic courses and plan to further their studies in college. Princess Anne can well be proud of the scholastic achievements of the tenth graduating class, the Class of 1965.

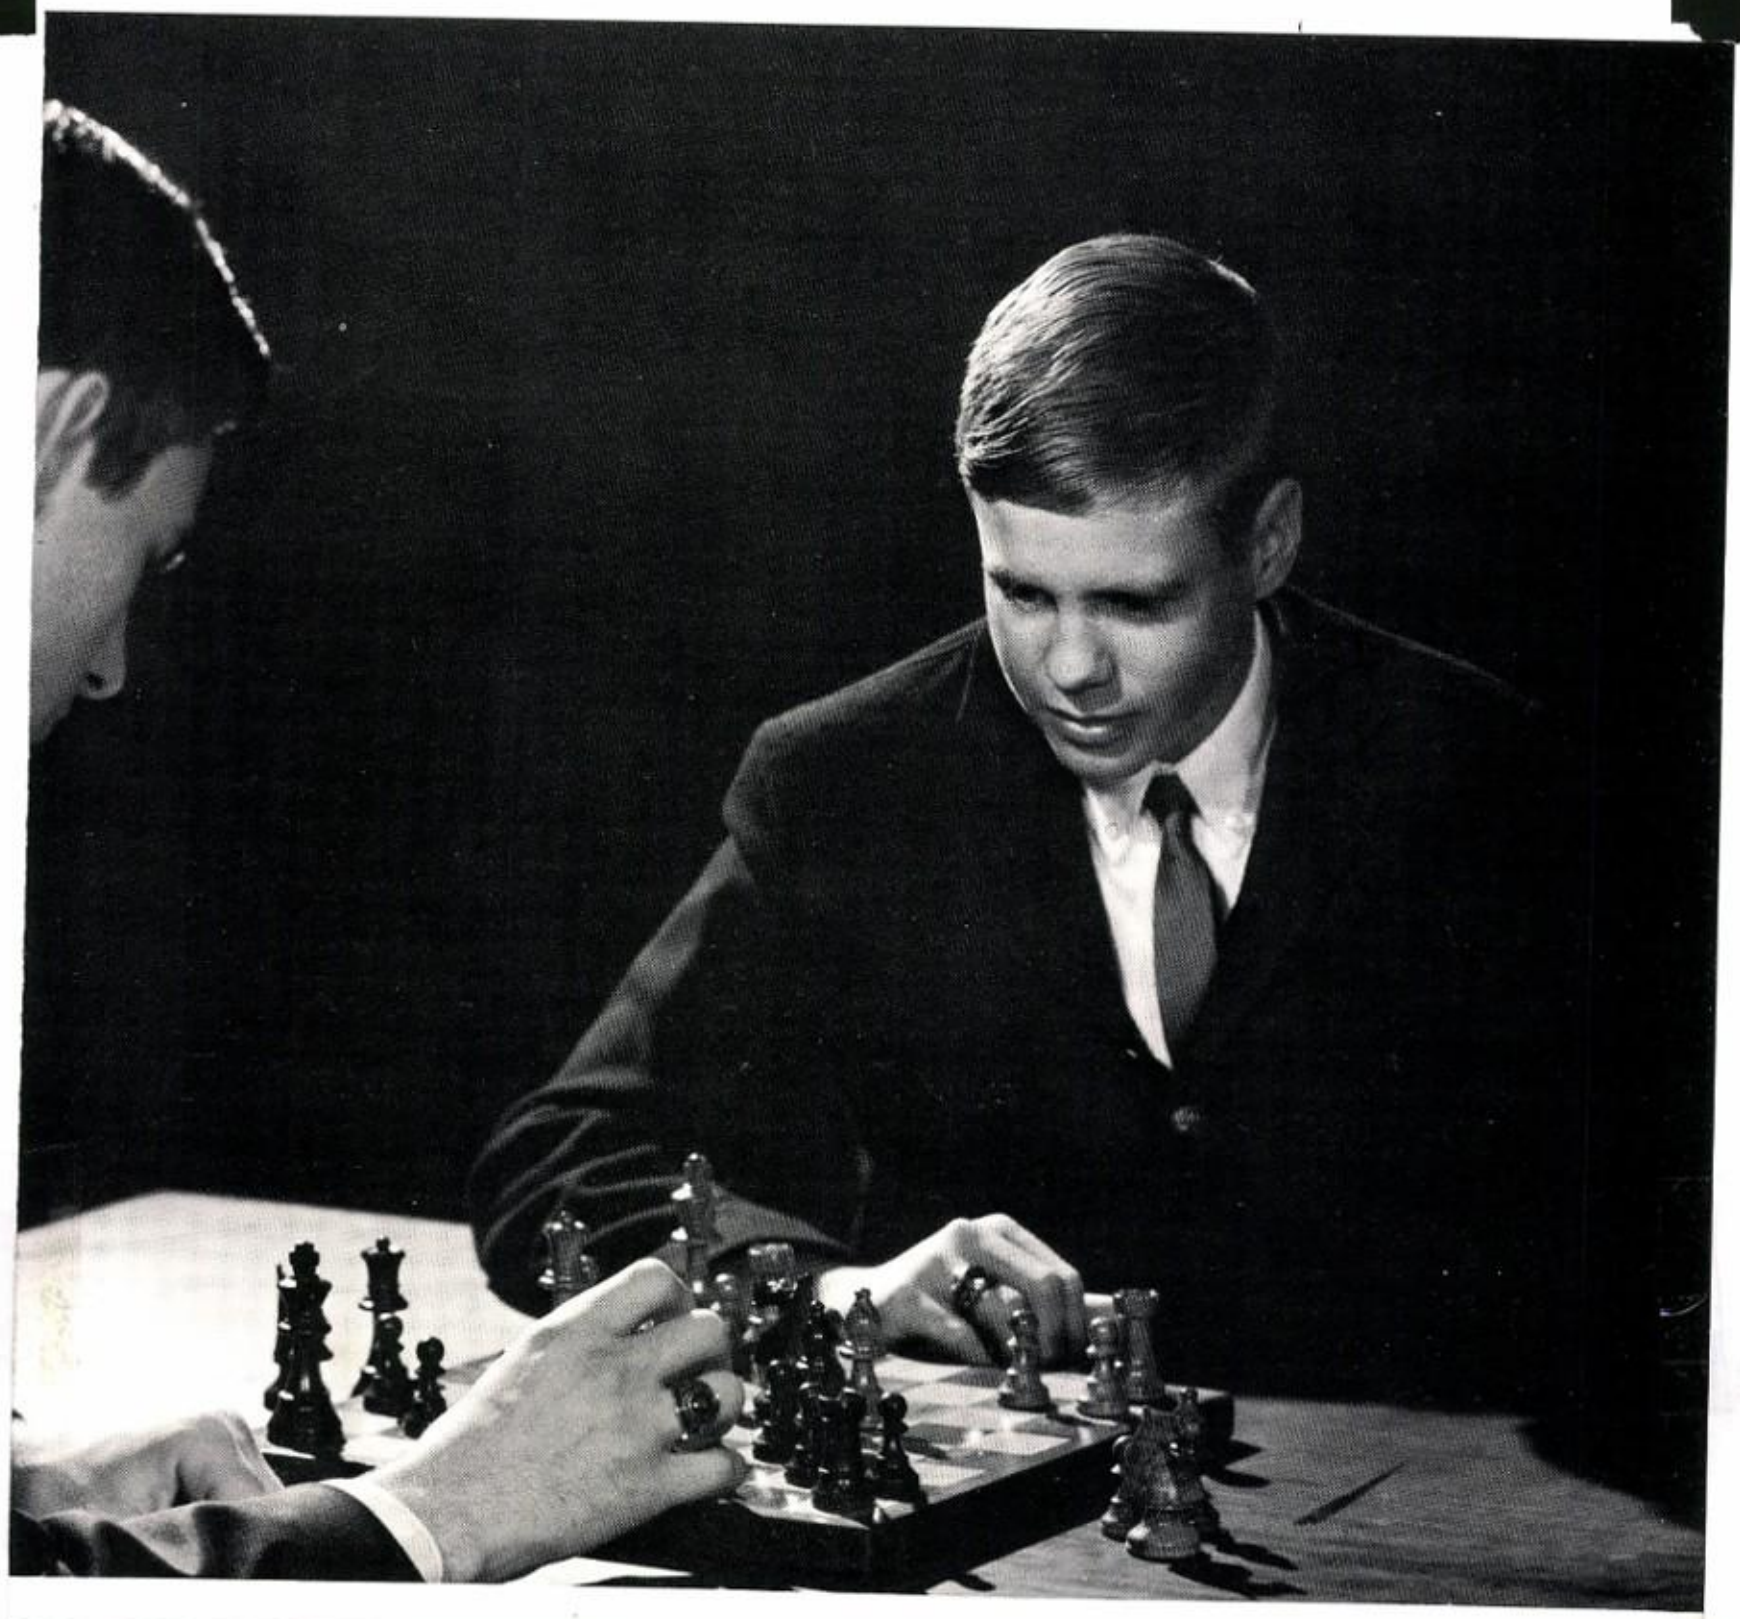
as they contribute to the community of today and mold the community of tomorrow by its most precious asset, its future citizens. Prime organizations in striving for these goals are those directly affiliated with school activities. As the school in itself is a small community, its students' participation in its functions instills some of the responsibilities and standards these future citizens will face. The S.C.A., serving as the democratic government of the student body, allows students to become acquainted with the complexities and duties they will later face as citizens. The S.C.A.'s Foreign Exchange Student Program helps to broaden the student's views to include tolerance and understanding as to the customs and thoughts of foreign lands.

Such clubs as the Key, Keyettes, Junior Civitan, and the Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Ys stimulate good citizenship as they transfer these ideals to the community through activities serving the public. However, all Princess Anne activities are not geared to directly promote civic interest. Instead, their purpose is to develop the individual potential and assist in his character development. Some organizations encourage scholastic achievement as the National Honor Society.

Equally important other clubs, such as the Girls' Athletic Association aid in the development of physical fitness in conjunction with the ideals of good sportsmanship and honest competition. Several clubs encourage students in their career decisions as Future Teachers, Future Nurses, Future Homemakers, Future Business Leaders, or Ars Medica. All these activities strive for that final goal—to produce good citizens for the world of tomorrow.



ORGANIZATIONS

SCA SPONSORS FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENT

The Student Cooperative Association provides a means for the student body as a whole to govern itself through representation at meetings held every second week. Under the leadership of Randy Henderson and guidance of Mr. E. E. Cox, this year's SCA has worked to achieve more effective representation, better organized projects, and stronger ties between the faculty and students.

Randy emphasizes a point to the representatives.

The SCA sponsored Honor Week preceding mid-term exams to emphasize the importance of integrity and honesty among the students. The association is also the organizing body of the Honor Council and the Inter-Club Council, which has been reactivated this year largely because of the efforts of vice-president Bob Hutten.

The SCA took charge of all homecoming activities including the Coronation Ball following the homecoming game. Several committees were established to handle the various phases of homecoming—the parade, the SCA float, and the coronation. The SCA also held a Folk Festival on January 29 to raise money to help pay for the expenses of the foreign exchange student, the primary project of each year.

SCA representatives listen to a proposed motion.

The Honor Council is composed of three seniors, two juniors, and two sophomores. These members of the court are carefully investigated and selected by the faculty.

These judges examine all cases in violation of the Honor Code, a self-imposed honor system. Trials are heard after school at a specified time. Accused offenders may bring witnesses and character references. The judges determine the guilt or innocence of the accused. Their decision is based on a majority vote by secret ballot. The judges also recommend punishment to the assistant principal.

The purpose of this Honor Council is to instill in the students of Princess Anne the responsibility and necessity of honesty and integrity. By allowing students to report and convict themselves, the administration and faculty encourages conscientious and mature future citizens.

Representatives to the ICC listen as chairman Bob Hutten outlines the organization's goals for the month.

The Inter-Club Council is one of the most important organizational activities at Princess Anne. The Council coordinates and regulates the activities of the many clubs sponsored by the school. Each club has a representative, usually the vice-president, in the council. At the council meetings these representatives discuss the standards required for the clubs. They also set up special projects in which all clubs must participate. These projects include assigning each club a bulletin board to keep attractively decorated.

Every month the ICC selects two clubs to serve as Club of the Month. One club is a service club, and one club is an interest group. This award is based on a point system. Each club receives a certain number of points according to its participation in the ICC and the activities in which it undertakes that month.

NHS RECOGNIZES OUTSTANDING SCHOLARS

One of the more distinguished organizations at Princess Anne is the National Honor Society. However, the Honor Society is not simply an organization to honor superior students. Its purpose is to create enthusiasm for scholarship, to create a desire to render service, to promote leadership, and to develop character in the students of Princess Anne.

Only seniors are eligible to be members of the Honor Society. The majority of the members are chosen in the spring of their junior year. However, any students who wish to join in their senior year are screened and if eligible, inducted in an impressive tapping ceremony in November. The old members don caps and gowns and, before the entire senior class, tap those persons who have applied and are eligible to be members. The requirements all the members must meet are quite rigid. Scholarship, leadership, and service are but a few of the facets of a student's personality that are considered. The members must have a B average with no grade lower than a C and a minimum of seventy points. The distribution of these points is as such: scholarship—thirty points for a B average and forty points for an A average; leadership—a minimum of ten points; activities—at least ten points for participation in school activities; and character—twenty points.

The main goal of the National Honor Society this year has been the presentation of two five hundred dollar scholarships to deserving members. Consequently, the group has sponsored many activities to raise the necessary funds. The first dance of the year, after the Norview football game, was one of the Honor Society's projects. In March they held the annual Junior-Senior basketball game and a dance aftwards. The members also sold Princess Ann sweatshirts to help raise funds.

The PEERAGE, Princess Anne's yearbook, is published annually by the students of the school. Besides providing students with the photographs of the members of the various classes, the yearbook is a record of all activities, athletic, scholastic, and social, that occur during the school year. The PEERAGE is intended to bring the student pleasant memories each time he reads through it.

The editorial staff is comprised of seniors chosen because of their ability in English, their creative imaginations, and their qualities of leadership. These students work long and hard to put together a book designed to please all their fellow students. The business staff, headed by the business manager, sells ads and subscriptions. The editor-in-chief coordinates the work of all the members of the staff and lays the basic foundation for the yearbook. The layout editor and the photography editors are in charge of arranging the pages in the most attractive way possible. The articles appearing in the book are written by the copy editor. All sports pages are under the direction of the two sports editors. The features editor covers all activities connected with the school. All these people work for one common goal—the production of the 1965 PEERAGE.

ANNE SCHOOL NEWSPAPER, THE PAGE

Twice a month the newspaper staff distributes the school paper, the Princess Anne PAGE. This newspaper provides news of past, present, and future events which concern Princess Anne High School. The PAGE includes information of club activities, sports events, scholastic achievements, and anything else concerning PA students and faculty. The PAGE also provides space for classified advertisements and club ads. In addition, the newspaper has special holiday features such as "My Valentine", "Dear Santa," and the Princess Anne "Prank."

The newspaper editorial staff consists of students taking Journalism II under the supervision of Miss Florence Pavlides. However, without the assistance of such people as the draftsmen, artists, photographers, salesmen, and printers, the Princess Anne PAGE surely could not exist. Twice a year, the editorial staff is changed in order to give more people the opportunity to display their journalistic talents. This rotation enables the PAGE to achieve more variety and broaden its editorial horizons.

The Princess Anne High School band, one of the finest in the state, was chosen for the great honor of attending the Festival of States in Florida representing the Commonwealth of Virginia. This is but one of the many honors awarded to the band, which is under the adept direction of Mr. George L. Bailey.

The band is built around a course offered all students. The main objectives of this group are to teach music in its cultural and social aspects, to develop the students appreciation for music as well as his skill, to encourage the use of music as a means of relaxation, to develop the students understanding of other peoples through their music, and to guide gifted students into a fuller realization of their potential.

The band is one of the important factors at football games, providing entertainment at pre-game and at half-time. They also participate in the Virginia All-Regional Bands, state festivals, and various parades, such as Norfolk's Oyster Bowl Parade. The many trophies on display in the band room attest to the excellence of the organization.

Among the various social activities are the band's annual Christmas Party and the Spring Banquet and Party. They also entertain the school at various concerts held throughout the year.

They serve the school and the community by developing individual initiative, providing experience in living and working together, and preparing its members for useful lives as citizens. Among the many projects sponsored by the Key Club have been the distribution of student directories, sponsoring of a dance after the Wilson football game, as well as the participation in an annual project with the Kiwanis Club. The membership requirements are maintaining a C average, being at least a sophomore, and being of good character.

Each year, the Key Club awards one of its senior members with a scholarship attained from the funds collected over the year. Each year in March most of the members attend the Key Club National Convention in Washington. This enables the members to compare notes with the delegates from the members of the other Key Clubs in the country.

KEYETTES AID PEACE AND POVERTY CORPS

The Keyette Club of Princess Anne, under the sponsorship of Mrs. Doris French, strives to develop individual initiative and leadership, to serve the school and community, and to prepare its members for useful lives as citizens. The motto of the club is "We Serve," and PA's Keyettes have served the school in many ways. They operate a used paperback bookstore in the foyer of the auditorium, serve as usherettes for various activities at the school, and sponsor a dance after one of the basketball games. The major project this year has been contributing to the Peace and Poverty Corps, for which the club collected money for the building of a school. Each year the club sponsors the Miss Princess Anne Pageant, the proceeds of which go to the scholarship fund which is awarded to one of the deserving seniors. Socially, the club participates with the Key Club for many events throughout the year.

VARSITY CLUB SPONSORS "GEEK WEEK" DANCE

The Varsity Club, under the leadership of its president, Taze Cox, is an organization open to all athletes at Princess Anne who have earned letters in their particular sports. All new members, or goats, are initiated at Hell Night, which culminates Geek Week. Geek Week and the Geek Week dance are two of the events students look forward to most (except the goats). It is during this week that the goats are put through their paces at the command of any of the Varsity Club members.

The Varsity Club operates the concession stand in the gym foyer and, with the lucrative returns, buys the school new athletic equipment. They plan to furnish the school with photographs of many of PAs athletic teams to be displayed for the students.

Members plan the schedule for Hell Night.

The austere, sophisticated officers of the infamous Varsity Club prepare to open another meeting.

The goats pray for snow on Hell Night.

A CAPELLA AND MADRIGALS EXCEL MUSICALLY

Princess Anne's fine choral department is one the entire school can be proud of. Under the direction of Mr. Clark Graves, the A Capella and Madrigals have become famous for their excellent music. To become a member of the A Capella Choir, students must audition for Mr. Graves. The Madrigals is an entirely voluntary group, carrying no credit for the students.

Among the many honors achieved by the A Capella Choir is participation in the Eastern District All-State Chorus. Among the many concerts given are the Christmas concert in December, the Ruritan Minstrels in March, and the Spring concert in May. The A Capella Choir also provides the music for the graduating seniors in June.

The Tri-Hi-Y is represented at the District Conference at Wilson High School and at the Model General Assembly. Among the service projects the club has undertaken this year have been the "Freedom From Hunger" Campaign, a Christmas party at an old folks' home, baskets of food at Thanksgiving and Christmas, and collections of books for a women's university in Japan. The girls observe National Hi-Y Tri-Hi-Y Week and also YMCA week. An annual money-making project is the Favorite Teacher Contest in which students vote for their favorite teachers at a penny a vote.

In May the girls held their annual banquet at which the officers for the 65-66 school year were installed.

The girls of Theta have complied with the rules of the YMCA in many ways during the 1964-1965 school year. They have supported a needy family with gifts of clothes and food. They have collected books for an overseas college and have aided the Multiple Sclerosis Drive by collecting funds. Also they sponsored a cancer program to familiarize people with the disease. Occasionally, they attended church as a group.

Among the social activities undertaken by the club have been pajama parties and teas for the old members during Christmas. The girls' Homecoming float, the theme of which was "Damage Those KewpieKrabs," won second place in the overall competition, and their foyer display won first place.

Other service projects included giving a Thanksgiving basket to a needy family, Christmas caroling at Norfolk General Hospital, donating money to the Kennedy Memorial Library Fund, sending clothes to the Goodwill Industries, and sponsoring a drive called "Books for Appalachia" to help children in need of reading material.

Less serious projects have included the annual Tug-of-War with Sigma Phi Hi-Y, decorating the foyer before a football game, and holding an informal coke and pajama party for the members and alumnae. Several members have attended the District Hi-Y Tri-Hi-Y Convention and the Model General Assembly.

Y-TEENS AIM TO SERVE SCHOOL AND COMMUNITY

The Alpha Y-Teens is an organization affiliated with the Young Women's Christian Association and is dedicated to the furtherance of Christian ideals in the school, home, and community. Any girls attending Princess Anne are eligible to be a member.

A relatively new organization, the Y-Teens have undertaken many service projects. They have visited old folks' homes at Thanksgiving and Christmas and have prepared food baskets for the needy at Thanksgiving. The club also cooperates with groups from other Virginia Beach high schools in various projects for the betterance of the community. The annual Mid-Winter Ball and various picnics have been held by five different Y-Teens groups in the area. The PA Y-Teens have sponsored dances and held doughnut sales in order to raise money for their treasury.

Cavalier Hi-Y, through various service and money-making projects, has become one of the most respected organizations in the school. The members must maintain a C average and be willing to participate in the numerous projects undertaken by the club.

This year Cavalier placed first in the float competition in Homecoming. They were also named the third most outstanding service club at Princess Anne. Among the various activities, Cavalier has sold donuts, sent delegates to the Model General Assembly, and attended church. They have also co-sponsored a fashion show with Trinity Tri-Hi-Y.

Attentive Sigma Phi members at a typical meeting.

Vice-President Bruce and President Taze announce plans for a new service project.

Sigma Phi-Hi-Y has maintained high standards of fellowship through participation in school and community service projects. In March the members braved windy weather to hold their teachers' car wash. They emphasized the Christian aspect of the YMCA in attending church services with Trinity Tri-Hi-Y in February. Among other projects was a blood drive in the spring.

Sigma Phi's unique homecoming entry, "The Littlest Show on Earth," was the subject of many conversations following homecoming. Included in the Hi-Y's social plans each year is the annual beach party.

through excellent team cooperation, good sportsmanship, and outstanding school spirit. All these factors have helped Princess Anne achieve a remarkable year in high school athletics. The football season began with PA's defeat of long reigning archrival Great Bridge, after a seven year battle for a victory. Princess Anne's basketball team enjoyed equal success with outstanding victories over city rivals such as Virginia Beach and Cox High Schools. The track team proved their superior talents by breaking school records. Princess Anne's wrestling team is equally proud of its record this year, which includes two members on the Eastern District Team. The baseball season revealed the merit of the team on the diamond as they concluded a successful year. The golf team has grown in size and excellence this year, along with the tennis team, another smaller but excellent school athletic organization. Contributing to the success of PA's athletes, the school cheerleaders, varsity and junior varsity, were always on hand to share victory or defeat. A great deal of the fun in PA athletics was found in the traditional intramural contests. Among them were the Powder Puff game between the Junior and Senior girls and the Junior-Senior basketball game between the boys. Perhaps the favorite intramural game was the Student-Faculty game in which both the girls and the boys battled their favorite teachers. Truly the Princess Ann athletic program offers excellence in competitive events and in the superior school spirit and enjoyment which follows.

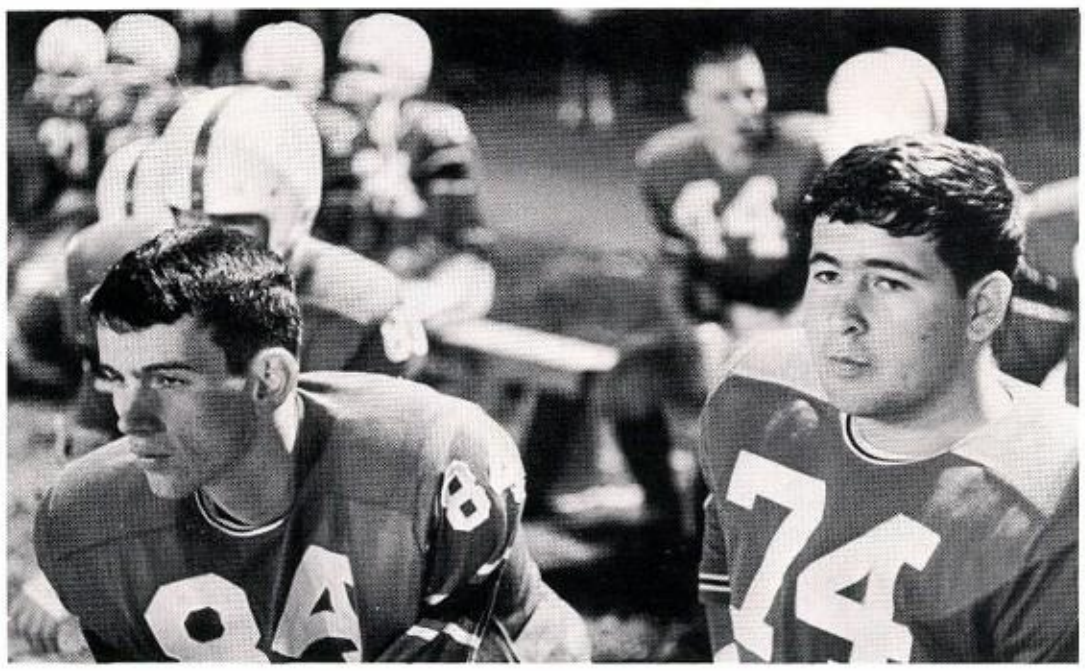
Hey Coach, who we playin'?



The 1964 varsity football team, much to the surprise of many, began the season as a strong contender for the Eastern District Football Trophy. The defenses, led by Paul Odom, John Craig, David Ahles, and many others, held Great Bridge, Norview and Granby scoreless in the first three games. Then, in the Churchland contest, both the offense and the defense shone in a tough 16-14 win.

The first disappointment for the PA eleven came in the Homecoming game against Hampton. The hard-fought battle ended in a 6-6 draw. Apparently discouraged by the first blemish on their record, the team lost the next two contests to Oscar Smith and Deep Creek. But often defeats inspire wins, as was the case in the Cradock game. This game, an almost even match of offense and defense, produced one of the most controversial plays in Eastern District history. A last minute tying touchdown by Cradock was called back, thus saving the game for Princess Anne. The final two games produced a loss to Wilson and a victory over newcomer Cox.

Many new stars shone in the Princess Anne lineup. Quarterback Dee Crigger showed his excellent passing and running ability. Al Kimball and Lou Paulson, returning regulars from last season, as well as Pete Sachon and Jeff Smith showed their talents in the backfield. Ed Vennick, a newcomer to Princess Anne, kicked many field goals and extra points to add to the score. Among the excellent ends were Willie Kibler and David Turner. Other fine performances were made by such players as Jim Downing, Lumpy Clark, Chuck Brinkley, John Stein, Chuck Stratton, and many others. The school can well be proud of the superior job Coach Sachon and the assistant coaches have done with the 1964 team. They have provided the spectators with an exciting ten weeks of Group One football.

"Yea red! Yea whitei Yea blue! Fight, fight!" This familiar cheer is but one of many heard at pep rallies, football, and basketball games. The varsity cheerleaders, leaders of the school in spirit and pep, promote enthusiasm among the students and athletes.

Having only one girl returning from the previous year, the cheering squad has spent many hours practicing to rebuild the team. They encourage spirit by their cheers, signs, and pep rallies. They also participate in the sale of school spirit ribbons before the games.

TOURNAMENT

PA	68	Great Bridge	86

Princess Anne's basketball team, which fared better this year than expected, ended its season with a record of 11 wins and 7 losses. In conference games, PA won 9 games and lost 3, not including a win over Ferguson and a loss to Great Bridge in the tournament. Leading the play for PA were such good players as John McNulty, Dan Wells, Mike Garriott, Gary McMahan, and many others.

The season started off slowly with PA losing the first four games (luckily, only one was a conference contest). Then with a smashing 84-47 defeat over newcomer Kellam, the Cavaliers began an upward trend. Although the team was defeated by Maury the next week, they went on to defeat Granby, Warwick, Norview, and Virginia Beach in subsequent weeks. Perhaps the hottest games in the schedule this year were the games with Cox. Great rivalry has sprung up between the two Virginia Beach schools, and this rivalry has induced an upsurge of spirit among the students at the games. After PA defeated Cox twice, the Cavaliers went on to defeat Smith, Norview, and Virginia Beach. The highest score to be made in PA's history was made at the Virginia Beach game when the Cavaliers defeated the Seahawks by a rousing 100-35 score. The last two points scored for PA were made by Gene Rohr with clutch foul-shots in the last second of play. The tournament games culminated the season for the Cavaliers. For the first time all year, the PA team defeated Ferguson in a taut 76-67 contest. The next night the Cavaliers bowed to Great Bridge after a hard-fought battle in which the Wildcats outscored PA by only 18 points.

Princess Anne has been distinguished by many fine players and by fine teamwork. Dan Wells, the high scorer for the Cavaliers, was third highest in the district with a 19.3 average per game. He was also named to the All Eastern Second Team. The excellence of this basketball team is quite obvious when one considers that in the first few games, the boys had little or no experience playing together as a team. There were only three returning lettermen from 1964, and, of those, Mike Garriott was the only starter. The team deserves much credit for their hard work and effort.

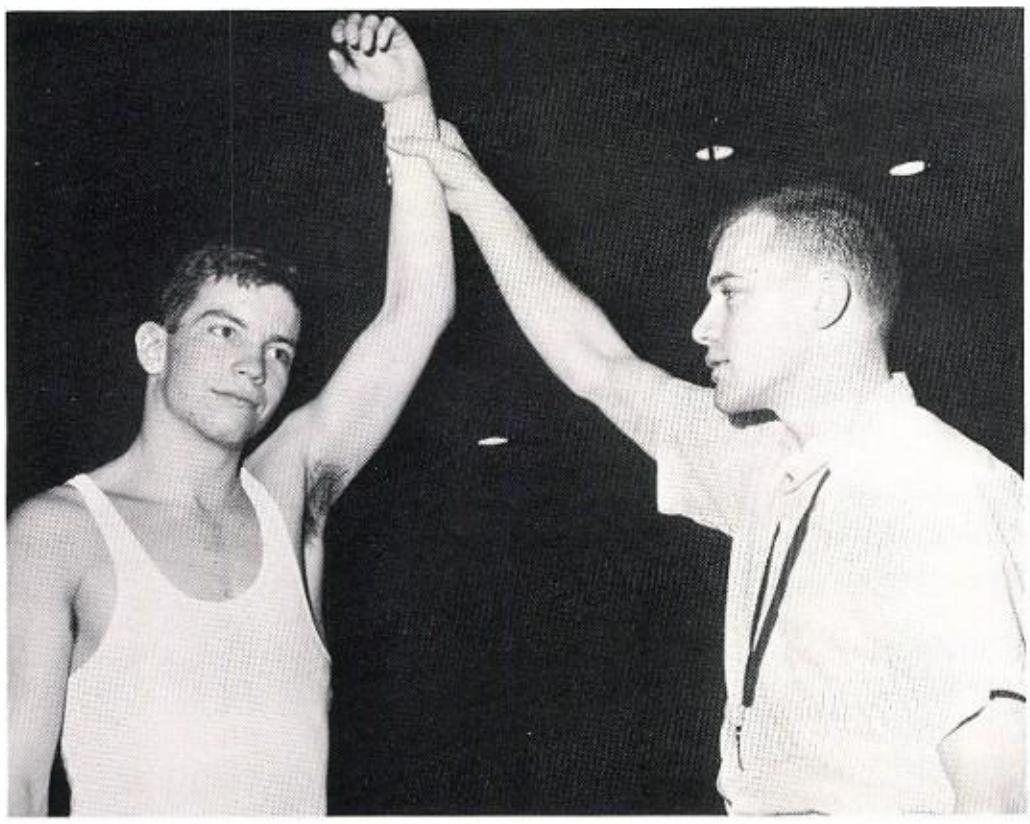
Another victory for Taz Cox.



Princess Anne's wrestling team has had, for the most part, a successful season this year. Hindered by the loss of Taz Cox because of ineligibility, they had to rely on the resources of such others as Geoff Taylor and Lindsey Suggs. Taylor took third place in the 154 pound weight class in Eastern District Competition and Suggs placed first in the 165 pound class. These boys and the rest of the team have earned the pride and admiration of the rest of the student body for their fine performances.

JV's CHEER TEAMS TO VICTORY

For many long hard hours the girls of the junior varsity cheering squad have practiced to make their cheers perfect. They practice their art at JV football games as well as JV basketball games. The girls also sell programs at the varsity football games, and they sometimes help the varsity cheerleaders arouse spirit and pep. This JV cheering experience is an important step for the girls who wish to become varsity cheerleaders.

Under the able leadership of Marilyn Skelton and Diane Payne, the JVs have shown the school a good example of spirit and have set the precedent for future cheerleaders. The feeling of school spirit aroused by these girls is essential to the spectators and most especially to the athletes themselves.

in those goals which they have formulated throughout their high school careers. As to their success, the Seniors and Juniors have come to some definite conclusions while the Sophomores and Freshmen have just begun to recognize their ambitions.

Most students hope to pass with reasonable grades; all wish to graduate. Many hope to further their education in college, trade school, or business school. Nevertheless, in arriving at these goals and others, all students, in effect, are striving towards one main objective—maturity.

They strive for mental maturity. The maturity which does not mean simply good grades earned by study and memorization; it includes the power to reason, evaluate, and draw definite conclusions. They strive for emotional maturity. The maturity which requires the art of self-discipline, a sense of responsibility, and the acceptance of failure with a resolve to do better. At school these standards appear as the self-discipline in studying instead of watching television, the sense of responsibility in turning in assignments on time, and the acceptance of a failing grade without discouragement.

Students strive for social maturity. They join clubs and organizations in order to meet and work with other students. Through these extracurricular and school activities, students learn to cooperate with fellow adults and to accept adult responsibilities. Through his high school years, the student has actually been striving for one main objective—maturity.

CLASS OF '65 EXCELS ALL OTHERS

The senior year climaxes the long, arduous transit from one's early formative years to the culmination of one's public education. Seniors must choose between several post-graduate careers, such as higher education, employment, or military service. Success in any of these fields will rely to a great extent upon the knowledge and acquaintances gained in high school.

The spirit of unity that exists in the senior class is illustrated in the various projects for the enrichment of the class and the school. Candy sales and the Senior Play were held in order to produce funds for three scholarships and a gift to the school. Seniors also help sell the"talking yearbook", a recording of the year's activities. Thus the class has united in the pursuit of a common goal—that of accomplishment and service to the school.

The social atmosphere of the senior class has been that of closeness and flexibility. Various social functions were held as relaxation from the tensions of school activity. The Senior Prom climaxed the social year as a year of many memories. These happy memories will live long in the hearts of all the seniors.

The Senior year is culminated by graduation and baccalaureate ceremonies . . . These occasions mark the end of one phase and the metamorphosis into adult life. The Senior Class leaves as its legacy achievement and excellence in leadership, scholastic, and athletic endeavors. The Class of '65 will long be remembered for its record of class unity and harmony.

Seniors proudly show off their rings.

CLASS OF '66 GAINS NEW STATUS

The conspicious symbol of this Junior Class has been their totem pole. The lowest face represented their term as Sophomores, the next face indicates their present status as Juniors, and the topmost face will denote their final rank as Seniors. This unique Class token was present at all activities in which the Juniors participated.

This year has been one of growing prestige and unique experiences for the Junior Class. February meant that crucial decision of the class ring. In the spring, the Class chose their candidates for Boys' and Girls' State. As graduation approached, they received the blessings of the Senior Class in their Last Will and Testament. However, the climax of their Junior year was that momentous occasion, the Junior Ring Dance, when the Juniors finally received that long-awaited class ring. With the realization of this new status symbol, the Junior Class now turns its thoughts to the final year at Princess Anne High School as the Senior Class of 1966.

JUNIOR YEAR IS FILLED WITH MEMORIES

Nancy Shea is congratulated by teammates for a decisive play.

CLASS OF '67 SHOWS PROMISE FOR THE FUTURE

Once again a new Sophomore Class has been added to the Princess Anne roster. This year's class, the largest in the school, consists of approximately 730 students. These new members originate from the Kempsville and Kellam High Schools.

These sophomores will remember their first year at Princess Anne as a very busy one. They have witnessed the appearance of their new class leaders. They have experienced the creation of a new class unity as the Sophomore Class of Princess Anne. They have begun to mold their class aims and goals for the remainder of their high school career. As one of the future graduation classes, they have already inaugurated a scholarship program for a class member. This year their most prominent activity has been the Sophomore Class Dance in April.

These new Cavaliers are well on their way to becoming one of the more outstanding classes of Princess Anne. They can be justly proud of their accomplishments and can look forward to many future successes.

CLASS OF '68 BEGINS PA CAREER

For the first time in four years the Princess Anne curriculum includes a Freshman Class. The new Class includes approximately 180 students all of whom originate from the newer Kellam High School.

Being the first Freshmen in several years, they faced many difficulties as they attempted to maintain their new position at Princess Anne. As their enrollment was noticeably smaller than their fellow classes, one of the primary aims of the Freshmen this year has been a recognition among their greater numbering upperclassmen. In order to achieve this recognition, they have engaged in several activities solely sponsored by the Freshman Class. However, due to their limited number, they held their Freshman Class Dance in conjunction with the Sophomore Dance in April. Nevertheless, the Class of '68 has realized many of its ambitions as they set new precedents for the future Freshmen at Princess Anne High School.

The Cavaliers can point with pride to the record of accomplishments of their new Freshman Class with the anticipation of many future honors for Princess Anne.

ex'cel·lence, exceedingly valuable . . .

as these many business concerns furnish the community with a number of goods and services both attractive and compulsory to modern tastes and needs. All these establishments are an essential and valuable asset to the community; they feed it, clothe it, and transport it; they inform it, finance it, and insure it. These businesses serve as the life-line of the community. As active members of the community, these concerns are always willing to contribute their valuable time and money for worthwhile endeavors, whether they be political, economical, or just plain social. Such an interest in the community has been illustrated by their support of this year's PEERAGE. They have shown great enthusiasm through their advertisements. Accordingly, the yearbook staff acknowledges and appreciates their patronage in this year's annual.

The PEERAGE staff would especially like to thank those concerns which donated the many doorprizes for this year's annual dance.

The 1965 PEERAGE staff encourages the student body to return this support as they consider the many advertisements.

Remember, America . . .

"Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."
—Thomas Jefferson

In the historic land served by Virginia Electric and Power Company. This warning is not easy to forget. On every hand, contrasted with the landmark of this progressive, growing area, are the monuments to America's unending fight for freedom.

But freedom cannot be preserved in stone or defended by monuments. Freedom must exist in the heart of the individual. It must be championed by the living.

The freedom to build . . . to create . . . to grow as free individuals in a free nation is our priceless heritage from the past. Its cost is our national vigilance.
